

The Lowdown in Lobsterville

VOLULME FOURTEEN

MAY 2006

OFF AGAIN - ON AGAIN

Once again, the only dependable attribute of this paper, is its undependability. But we will give it another shot and see if we can get back on a schedule. We await the possibility with great unexpectations.

THE VOTES HAVE BEEN COUNTED

The Christmas Tree decorating contest was a great success - a special thank you to all who voted. And the winners are - - -

Third place goes to Tree Two, designed and decorated by our co-party planners Fast Frieda and Party Pete;

Second place goes to Tree Three, designed and decorated by Lucienne and Lorree Lobster;

Which means the honors and accolades of first place go to the team of last year's winners, Klaw Kringle and Little Lindsay Little.

It seems that Klaw Kringle and Little Lindsay Little have their ears and eyes in tune with what our citizens like and, as such, they are going to be hard to beat. A very special thank you to all contestants - the trees were all special. And a very special thank you also to those who took the time to vote.

VALENTINE'S POEM WINNERS

Not only is the Christmas Tree decorating contest old information - the results are also in on our Valentines Day poem contest. Here are the poems:

First place, for her plain and simple sentiments, was Lindy Lobster to her sweetheart, Lobster Gregory:

Me and You
You and Me
Together - Forever
The Way It Should Be.

Second place goes to our mild mannered librarian, Lucy Lobster, for rather racy words to Klaw Kringle.

One day
Not so long ago
I was alone
With nowhere to go

Now I have you
And life is great
When molting season comes
Do you want to mate?

And the third place honors go to Little Lindsay Little and her inclings towards Party Pete

Roses are red
Violets are blue
If I ate Lobster
It would be you.

So there you have it - the poets of Lobsterville have shown their true talents.

CLAWS AND TAILS

In the thank goodness we have a good grapevine department, the Mother's Day picnic was well attended even though the Lowdown slacked off and failed to get an issue out advertising it. The crab cakes were delicious and the wine imported from the Okanagan valley was perfect. Glad you could make it.

Father's Day doth approach. So dig out your BBQs and your favorite marinating brew and get ready for the first annual (hopefully) finger steak BBQ contest. Judges will be visiting from the shores of Nova Scotia and the best tasting finger steaks will earn their maker the envied "silver finger".

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

The Lowdown is holding the official contest for the name of the new statute that is being built in the center of Arthropod park. Submit your entries and win. Grand prize is a new BBQ so you can enjoy finger steaks in the privacy of your own home. Deadline for entries is June 15th, 2006, and the winner will be announced in the July Issue of The Lowdown (if there is one).

Viva Le Lobster!!!!
